AN ACT

To provide for a study of the recommendations of the Joint Federal-State Commission on Policies and Programs Affecting Alaska Natives.

1        Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2        tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

1 SECTION 1. CONGRESSIONAL FINDINGS AND DECLARA-
2 TION OF POLICY.

3 The Congress finds and declares the following:

4 (1) The Joint Federal-State Commission on
5 Policies and Programs Affecting Alaska Natives
6 (hereafter in this Act referred to as the “Alaska Na-
7 tives Commission”) was established by Public Law
8 101–379 (42 U.S.C. 2991a note) following the publi-
9 cation in 1989 of the “Report on the Status of Alas-
10 ka Natives: A Call for Action” by the Alaska Fed-11 eration of Natives and after extensive congressional 12 hearings which focused on the need for the first 13 comprehensive assessment of the social, cultural, and 14 economic condition of Alaska’s 86,000 Natives since
15 the enactment of the Alaska Native Claims Settle-
16 ment Act, Public Law 92–203.

17 (2) The 14 member Alaska Natives Commission
18 held 15 regional hearings throughout Alaska be-
19 tween July 1992 and October 1993, and 2 statewide
20 hearings in Anchorage coinciding with the Conven-
21 tions of 1992 and 1993 of the Alaska Federation of 22 Natives. In May 1994, the Alaska Natives Commis-
23 sion issued its 3 volume, 440 page report. As re-
24 quired by Public Law 101–379, the report was for-
25 mally conveyed to the Congress, the President of the 26 United States, and the Governor of Alaska.

1           (3) The Alaska Natives Commission found that
2           many Alaska Native individuals, families, and com-
3           munities were experiencing a social, cultural, and 4           economic crisis marked by rampant unemployment,
5           lack of economic opportunity, alcohol abuse, depres-
6           sion, and morbidity and mortality rates that have 7           been described by health care professionals as “stag-
8           gering”.

9           (4) The Alaska Natives Commission found that 10          due to the high rate of unemployment and lack of 11          economic opportunities for Alaska Natives, govern-
12          ment programs for the poor have become the foun-
13          dation of many village economies. Displacing tradi-
14          tional Alaska Native social safety nets, these well-
15          meaning programs have undermined the healthy
16          interdependence and self-sufficiency of Native tribes
17          and families and have put Native tribes and families
18          at risk of becoming permanent dependencies of Gov-19          ernment.

20          (5) Despite these seemingly insurmountable
21          problems, the Alaska Natives Commission found
22          that Alaska Natives, building on the Alaska Native
23          Claims Settlement Act, had begun a unique process
24          of critical self-examination which, if supported by 25          the United States Congress through innovative legis-

1 lation, and effective public administration at all lev-
2 els including traditional Native governance, could
3 provide the basis for an Alaska Native social, cul-
4 tural, economic, and spiritual renewal.

5 (6) The Alaska Natives Commission recognized
6 that the key to the future well-being of Alaska Na-
7 tives lay in—

8 (A) the systematic resumption of respon-
9 sibility by Alaska Natives for the well-being of 10 their members,

11 (B) the strengthening of their economies,

12 (C) the strengthening, operation, and con-
13 trol of their systems of governance, social serv-
14 ices, education, health care, and law enforce-
15 ment, and

16 (D) exercising rights they have from their 17 special relationship with the Federal Govern-
18 ment and as citizens of the United States and 19 Alaska.

20 (7) The Alaska Natives Commission recognized
21 that the following 3 basic principles must be re-
22 spected in addressing the myriad of problems facing
23 Alaska Natives:

24 (A) Self-reliance.

25 (B) Self-determination.

1 (C) Integrity of Native cultures.

2 (8) There is a need to address the problems
3 confronting Alaska Natives. This should be done
4 rapidly, with certainty, and in conformity with the 5 real economic, social, and cultural needs of Alaska
6 Natives.

7 (9) Congress retains and has exercised its con-
8 stitutional authority over Native affairs in Alaska
9 subsequent to the Treaty of Cession and does so now
10 through this Act.

11 SEC. 2. ALASKA NATIVE IMPLEMENTATION STUDY.

4 date on which the grant is made under subsection (b), the

7 ommendations developed pursuant to subsection (c)(4), to 8 the President and the Congress and to the Governor and 9 legislature of the State of Alaska. In addition, the Alaska
