A BILL

To encourage the development and promulgation of voluntary consensus standards by providing relief under the anti-trust laws to standards development organizations with respect to conduct engaged in for the purpose of developing voluntary consensus standards, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Standards Develop-
5 ment Organization Advancement Act of 2003”.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 The Congress finds the following:

3 (1) In 1993, the Congress amended and re-
4 named the National Cooperative Research Act of 5 1984 (now known as the National Cooperative Re-
6 search and Production Act of 1993 (15 U.S.C. 4301
7 et seq.)) by enacting the National Cooperative Pro-
8 duction Amendments of 1993 (Public Law 103-42)
9 to encourage the use of collaborative, procompetitive
10 activity in the form of research and production joint 11 ventures that provide adequate disclosure to the 12 antitrust enforcement agencies about the nature and 13 scope of the activity involved.

14 (2) Subsequently, in 1995, the Congress in en-
15 acting the National Technology Transfer and Ad-
16 vancement Act of 1995 (15 U.S.C. 272 note) recog-
17 nized the importance of technical standards devel-
18 oped by voluntary consensus standards bodies to our 19 national economy by requiring the use of such stand-
20 ards to the extent practicable by Federal agencies
21 and by encouraging Federal agency representatives
22 to participate in ongoing standards development ac-
23 tivities. The Office of Management and Budget on 24 February 18, 1998, revised Circular A-119 to re-
25 flect these changes made in law.

1           (3) Following enactment of the National Tech-
2           nology Transfer and Advancement Act of 1995,
3           technical standards developed or adopted by vol-
4           untary consensus standards bodies have replaced
5           thousands of unique Government standards and 6           specifications allowing the national economy to oper-
7           ate in a more unified fashion.

8           (4) Having the same technical standards used
9           by Federal agencies and by the private sector per-10          mits the Government to avoid the cost of developing 11          duplicative Government standards and to more read-
12          ily use products and components designed for the 13          commercial marketplace, thereby enhancing quality
14          and safety and reducing costs.

15          (5) Technical standards are written by hun-
16          dreds of nonprofit voluntary consensus standards
17          bodies in a nonexclusionary fashion, using thousands 18          of volunteers from the private and public sectors,
19          and are developed under the standards development
20          principles set out in Circular Number A-119, as re-
21          vised February 18, 1998, of the Office of Manage-
22          ment and Budget, including principles that require
23          openness, balance, transparency, consensus, and due 24          process. Such principles provide for—

1 (A) notice to all parties known to be af-
2 fected by the particular standards development
3 activity,

4 (B) the opportunity to participate in 5 standards development or modification,

6 (C) balancing interests so that standards
7 development activities are not dominated by any 8 single group of interested persons,

9 (D) readily available access to essential in-
10 formation regarding proposed and final stand-
11 ards,

12 (E) the requirement that substantial
13 agreement be reached on all material points
14 after the consideration of all views and objec-
15 tions, and

16 (F) the right to express a position, to have 17 it considered, and to appeal an adverse decision.

18 (6) There are tens of thousands of voluntary
19 consensus standards available for government use.
20 Most of these standards are kept current through in-21 terim amendments and interpretations, issuance of 22 addenda, and periodic reaffirmation, revision, or 23 reissuance every 3 to 5 years.

1           (7) Standards developed by government entities
2 generally are not subject to challenge under the anti-3 trust laws.

4           (8) Private developers of the technical stand-
5 ards that are used as Government standards are 6 often not similarly protected, leaving such developers
7 vulnerable to being named as codefendants in law-
8 suits even though the likelihood of their being held
9 liable is remote in most cases, and they generally 10 have limited resources to defend themselves in such 11 lawsuits.

12           (9) Standards development organizations do not 13 stand to benefit from any antitrust violations that 14 might occur in the voluntary consensus standards
15 development process.

16           (10) As was the case with respect to research 17 and production joint ventures before the passage of 18 the National Cooperative Research and Production
19 Act of 1993, if relief from the threat of liability
20 under the antitrust laws is not granted to voluntary
21 consensus standards bodies, both regarding the de-
22 velopment of new standards and efforts to keep ex-
23 isting standards current, such bodies could be forced 24 to cut back on standards development activities at

1 great financial cost both to the Government and to 2 the national economy.

3 SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

4 Section 2 of the National Cooperative Research and

24 Management and Budget Circular Number A-119,
25 as revised February 10, 1998.
