A BILL

To amend title VII of the Tariff Act of 1930 to provide that exchange-rate misalignment by any foreign nation is a countervailable export subsidy, to amend the Exchange Rates and International Economic Policy Coordination Act of 1988 to clarify the definition of manipulation with respect to currency, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Fair Currency Act of 5 2007”.

6 TITLE I—SUBSIDIES AND PROD-
7 UCT-SPECIFIC SAFEGUARD
8 MECHANISM

9 SEC. 101. FINDINGS.

10 Congress makes the following findings:

11 (1) The economy and national security of the 12 United States are critically dependent upon a vi-13 brant manufacturing and agricultural base.

14 (2) The good health of United States manufac-
15 turing and agriculture requires, among other things, 16 unfettered access to open markets abroad and fairly 17 traded raw materials and products in accord with 18 the international legal principles and agreements of 19 the World Trade Organization and the International 20 Monetary Fund.

21 (3) The International Monetary Fund, the G–
22 8, and other international organizations have repeat-23 edly noted that exchange-rate misalignment can 24 cause imbalances in the international trading system 25 that could ultimately undercut the stability of the 1 system, but have taken no action to redress such 2 misalignments and imbalances.

3 (4) Since 1994, the People's Republic of China 4 and other countries have repeatedly intervened in 5 currency markets and taken measures that have sig-
6 nificantly misaligned the values of their currencies
7 against the United States dollar and other cur-8 rencies.

9 (5) This policy by the People's Republic of 10 China, for example, has resulted in substantial 11 undervaluation of the renminbi, by up to 40 percent 12 or more.

13 (6) Evidence of this undervaluation can be 14 found in the large and growing annual trade sur-
15 pluses of the People's Republic of China; substan-
16 tially expanding foreign direct investment in China; 17 and the rapidly increasing aggregate amount of for-18 eign currency reserves that are held by the People's 19 Republic of China.

20 (7) Undervaluation by the People's Republic of 21 China and by other countries acts as both a subsidy 22 for their exports and as a nontariff barrier against 23 imports into their territories, to the serious det-
24 riment of United States manufacturing and agri-25 culture.

1           (8)(A) As members of both the World Trade
2           Organization and the International Monetary Fund,
3           the People’s Republic of China and other countries
4           have assumed a series of international legal obliga-
5           tions to eliminate all subsidies for exports and to fa-6           cilitate international trade by fostering a monetary 7           system that does not tend to produce erratic disrupt-8           ions, that does not prevent effective balance-of-pay-9           ments adjustment, and that does not gain unfair 10          competitive advantage.

11          (B) These obligations are most prominently set 12          forth in—

13                 (i) Articles VI, XV, and XVI of the GATT
14                 1994 (as defined in section 2(1)(B) of the Uru-15                 guay Round Agreements Act (19 U.S.C.
16                 3501(1)(B));

17                 (ii) the Agreement on Subsidies and Coun-
18                 tervailing Measures (as described in section
19                 101(d)(12) of the Uruguay Round Agreements 20                 Act (19 U.S.C. 3511(d)(12)); and

21                 (iii) Articles IV and VIII of the Inter-
22                 national Monetary Fund’s Articles of Agree-23                 ment.

24          (9) Under the foregoing circumstances, it is 25          consistent with the international legal obligations of

1 the People’s Republic of China and similarly situ-
2 ated countries and with the corresponding inter-
3 national legal rights of the United States to amend 4 relevant United States trade laws to make explicit 5 that exchange-rate misalignment by any country is 6 actionable as a countervailable export subsidy.

7 SEC. 102. APPLICATION OF COUNTERVAILING DUTIES TO 8 NONMARKET ECONOMY COUNTRIES.

9 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 701(a)(1) of the Tariff
10 Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1671(a)(1)) is amended by insert-11 ing “(including a nonmarket economy country)” after 12 “country” each place it appears.

13 (b) USE OF ALTERNATE METHODOLOGIES.—Section
14 771(5)(E) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C.
15 1677(5)(E)) is amended by adding at the end the fol-16 lowing: “With respect to a nonmarket economy country, 17 for purposes of identifying and measuring a subsidy ben-18 efit described in clause (i), (ii), (iii), or (iv), or otherwise 19 conferred upon a recipient, the administering authority
20 shall use methodologies that take into account the possi-
21 bility that prevailing terms and conditions in that country
22 might not be available or might themselves be inappro-
23 priate benchmarks due to market distortions. In such cir-
24 cumstances, unless it is demonstrated that the nonmarket 25 economy country’s prevailing terms and conditions prac-

1 ticably can be adjusted to serve as appropriate bench-
2 marks, the administering authority shall use as bench-
3 marks appropriate terms and conditions prevailing outside
4 the nonmarket economy country. When the party in pos-
5 session of the information necessary to identify and meas-
6 ure the benefit of a subsidy does not timely and completely 7 submit that information for the record, the administering 8 authority shall use for that purpose the facts otherwise 9 available and shall, as warranted, draw adverse infer-10 ences.”.

11 (c) ADJUSTMENTS FOR EXPORT PRICE AND CON-12 STRUCTED EXPORT PRICE.—Section 772(c)(1)(C) of the 13 Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1677a(c)(1)(C)) is amended 14 by inserting before the end comma the following: “, wheth-
15 er the subject merchandise is from a country with a mar-
16 ket economy, a nonmarket economy, or a combination 17 thereof”.

18 (d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by 19 subsections (a), (b), and (c) apply with respect to a coun-20 tervening duty proceeding initiated under subtitle A of 21 title VII of the Tariff Act of 1930 before, on, or after 22 the date of enactment of this Act.

23 (e) ANTIDUMPING PROVISIONS NOT AFFECTED.—
24 The amendments made by subsections (a), (b), and (c)
25 shall not affect the status of a country as a nonmarket

1 economy country for the purposes of any matter relating 2 to antidumping duties under the Tariff Act of 1930.

3 SEC. 103. CLARIFICATION TO INCLUDE EXCHANGE-RATE
4 MISALIGNMENT AS A COUNTERAVAILABLE
5 SUBSIDY UNDER TITLE VII OF THE TARIFF
6 ACT OF 1930.

7 (a) AMENDMENTS TO DEFINITION OF 8 COUNTERAVAILABLE SUBSIDY.—

9 (1) FINANCIAL CONTRIBUTION.—Section
10 771(5)(D) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C.
11 1677(5)(D)) is amended—

12 (A) by redesignating clauses (i) through 13 (iv) as subclauses (I) through (IV), respectively;

14 (B) by striking “The term” and inserting 15 “(i) The term”; and

16 (C) by adding at the end the following:

17 “(ii) Exchange-rate misalignment (as 18 defined in paragraph (5C)) constitutes a 19 financial contribution within the meaning
20 of subclauses (I) and (III) of clause (i).”.

21 (2) BENEFIT CONFERRED.—Section 771(5)(E)
22 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1677(5)(E)) is 23 amended—

24 (A) in clause (iii), by striking “, and” and 25 inserting a comma;

1 (B) in clause (iv), by striking the period at 2 the end and inserting “, and”; and

3 (C) by inserting after clause (iv) the fol-
4 lowing new clause:

5 “(v) in the case of exchange-rate mis-
6 alignment (as defined in paragraph (5C)), 7 if the price of exported goods in United 8 States dollars is less than what the price
9 of such goods would be without the ex-
10 change-rate misalignment.”.

11 (3) SPECIFICITY.—Section 771(5A)(B) of the 12 Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1677(5A)(B)) is 13 amended by inserting before the period at the end 14 the following: “, such as exchange-rate misalignment 15 (as defined in paragraph (5C))”.

16 (b) DEFINITION OF EXCHANGE-RATE MISALIGN-17 MENT.—Section 771 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C.
18 1677) is amended by inserting after paragraph (5B) the 19 following new paragraph:

20 “(5C) EXCHANGE-RATE MISALIGNMENT.—

21 “(A) IN GENERAL.—For purposes of para-
22 graphs (5) and (5A), the term ‘exchange-rate 23 misalignment’ means an undervaluation of a 24 foreign currency as a result of protracted large-25 scale intervention by or at the direction of a

1 governmental authority in the exchange market.
2 Such undervaluation shall be found when the 3 observed exchange rate for a foreign currency is 4 below the exchange rate that could reasonably 5 be expected for that foreign currency absent the 6 intervention.

7 “(B) FACTORS.—In determining whether 8 exchange-rate misalignment is occurring and a 9 benefit thereby is conferred, the administering 10 authority in each case—

11 “(i) shall consider the exporting coun-
12 try’s—

13 “(I) bilateral balance-of-trade
14 surplus or deficit with the United 15 States;

16 “(II) balance-of-trade surplus or 17 deficit with its other trading partners
18 individually and in the aggregate;

19 “(III) foreign direct investment
20 in its territory;

21 “(IV) currency-specific and ag-
22 gregate amounts of foreign currency 23 reserves; and

24 “(V) mechanisms employed to 25 maintain its currency at an under-

1 valued exchange rate relative to an-2 other currency and, particularly, the 3 nature, duration, and monetary ex-
4 penditures of those mechanisms;

5 “(ii) may consider such other eco-6 nomic factors as are relevant; and 7 “(iii) shall measure the trade sur-

8 pluses or deficits described in subclauses 9 (I) and (II) of clause (i) with reference to 10 the trade data reported by the United 11 States and the other trading partners of 12 the exporting country, unless such trade
13 data are not available or are demonstrably
14 inaccurate, in which case the exporting 15 country’s trade data may be relied upon if 16 shown to be sufficiently accurate and 17 trustworthy.

18 “(C) COMPUTATION.—In quantifying ex-
19 change-rate misalignment, the administering
20 authority shall develop and apply an objective 21 methodology that is consistent with widely rec-22 ognized macroeconomic theory and shall rely 23 upon governmentally published and other pub-
24 licly available and reliable data.

1           “(D) TYPE OF ECONOMY.—An authority
2           found to be engaged in exchange-rate misalign-
3           ment may have either a market economy or a 4           nonmarket economy or a combination thereof.”.

5           (c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by 6 this section apply with respect to a countervailing duty 7 proceeding initiated under subtitle A of title VII of the 8 Tariff Act of 1930 before, on, or after the date of enact-9 ment of this Act.

10 SEC. 104. CLARIFICATION TO INCLUDE EXCHANGE-RATE
11 MISALIGNMENT BY THE PEOPLE’S REPUBLIC
12 OF CHINA AS A CONDITION TO BE CONSID-
13 ERED WITH RESPECT TO MARKET DISRUP- 14 TION UNDER CHAPTER 2 OF TITLE IV OF THE 15 TRADE ACT OF 1974.

16           (a) MARKET DISRUPTION.—

17           (1) IN GENERAL.—Section 421(c) of the Trade
18 Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2451(c)) is amended by add-19 ing at the end the following new paragraphs:

20           “(3) For purposes of this section, the term
21 ‘under such conditions’ includes exchange-rate mis-
22 alignment (as defined in paragraph (4)).

23           “(4)(A) For purposes of this section, the term
24 ‘exchange-rate misalignment’ means an undervalu-
25 ation of the renminbi as a result of protracted large-

1 scale intervention by or at the direction of the Gov-
2 ernment of the People’s Republic of China in the ex-
3 change market. Such undervaluation shall be found 4 when the observed exchange rate for the renminbi is 5 below the exchange rate that could reasonably be ex-6 pected for the renminbi absent the intervention.

7 “(B) In determining whether exchange-rate
8 misalignment is occurring, the Commission in each 9 case—

10 “(i) shall consider the People’s Republic of 11 China’s—

12 “(I) bilateral balance-of-trade surplus
13 or deficit with the United States;

14 “(II) balance-of-trade surplus or def-
15 icit with its other trading partners individ-16 ually and in the aggregate;

17 “(III) foreign-direct investment in its 18 territory;

19 “(IV) currency-specific and aggregate 20 amounts of foreign currency reserves; and 21 “(V) mechanisms employed to main-

22 tain its currency at an undervalued ex-
23 change rate relative to another currency 24 and, particularly, the nature, duration, and

1           monetary expenditures of those mecha-
2           nisms;

3           “(ii) may consider such other economic 4           factors as are relevant; and 5           “(iii) shall measure the trade surpluses or 6           deficits described in subclauses (I) and (II) of 7           clause (i) with reference to the trade data re-8           ported by the United States and the other trad-

9           ing partners of the People’s Republic of China, 10          unless such trade data are not available or are 11          demonstrably inaccurate, in which case the 12          trade data of the People’s Republic of China 13          may be relied upon if shown to be sufficiently 14          accurate and trustworthy.

15          “(C) COMPUTATION.—In quantifying exchange-16          rate misalignment, the Commission shall develop and 17          apply an objective methodology that is consistent 18          with widely recognized macroeconomic theory and 19          shall rely upon governmentally published and other 20          publicly available and reliable data.”.

21          (b) CRITICAL CIRCUMSTANCES.—Section 421(i)(1) of 22          the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2451(i)(1)) is amended 23          by inserting after subparagraph (B) the following:

24          “If the petition alleges and reasonably documents that ex-25          change-rate misalignment is occurring, such exchange-rate

1 misalignment shall be considered as a factor weighing in 2 favor of affirmative findings in subparagraphs (A) and 3 (B).”.

4 (c) STANDARD FOR PRESIDENTIAL ACTION.—Section
5 421(k)(2) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C.
6 2451(k)(2)) is amended by adding at the end the following 7 new sentence: “If the Commission makes an affirmative 8 determination that exchange-rate misalignment is occur-
9 ring, the President shall consider such exchange-rate mis-
10 alignment as a factor weighing in favor of providing im-11 port relief in accordance with subsection (a).”.

12 (d) MODIFICATIONS OF RELIEF.—Section 421(n)(2) 13 of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2451(n)(2)) is 14 amended by adding at the end the following new sentence:
15 “If the Commission affirmatively determines that ex-
16 change-rate misalignment is occurring, the Commission
17 and the President shall consider such exchange-rate mis-18 alignment as a factor weighing in favor of finding that 19 continuation of relief is necessary to prevent or remedy 20 the market disruption at issue.”.

21 (e) EXTENSION OF ACTION.—Section 421(o) of the 22 Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2451(o)) is amended—

23 (1) in paragraph (1), by adding at the end the 24 following new sentence: “If the Commission makes 25 an affirmative determination that exchange-rate mis-

1 alignment is occurring, the Commission shall con-
2 sider such exchange-rate misalignment as a factor 3 weighing in favor of finding that an extension of the 4 period of relief is necessary to prevent or remedy the 5 market disruption at issue.”; and

6 (2) in paragraph (4), by adding at the end the 7 following new sentence: “If the Commission makes
8 an affirmative determination that exchange-rate mis-
9 alignment is occurring, the President shall consider 10 such exchange-rate misalignment as a factor weigh-11 ing in favor of finding that an extension of the pe-12 riod of relief is necessary to prevent or remedy the 13 market disruption at issue.”.

14 (f) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by 15 this section apply with respect to an investigation initiated 16 under chapter 2 of title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 be-17 fore, on, or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

18 SEC. 105. PROHIBITION ON PROCUREMENT BY THE DE-

20 FENSE ARTICLES IMPORTED FROM THE PEO-
21 PLE’S REPUBLIC OF CHINA.

22 (a) COPY OF PETITION, REQUEST, OR RESOLUTION
23 TO BE TRANSMITTED TO THE SECRETARY OF DE-
24 FENSE.—Section 421(b)(4) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19

1 U.S.C. 2451(b)(4)) is amended by inserting “, the Sec-
2 retary of Defense” after “, the Trade Representative”.

3 (b) DETERMINATION OF SECRETARY OF DEFENSE.—
4 Section 421(b) of the Trade Act of 1974 (19 U.S.C.
5 2451(b)) is amended by adding at the end the following 6 new paragraph:

7 “(6) Not later than 15 days after the date on 8 which an investigation is initiated under this sub-9 section, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the 10 Commission a report in writing which contains the 11 determination of the Secretary as to whether or not 12 the articles of the People’s Republic of China that 13 are the subject of the investigation are like or di-14 rectly competitive with articles produced by a domes-15 tic industry that are critical to the defense industrial 16 base of the United States.”.

17 (c) PROHIBITION ON PROCUREMENT BY THE DE-18 PARTMENT OF DEFENSE OF CERTAIN DEFENSE ARTI-
19 CLES.—

20 (1) PROHIBITION.—If the United States Inter-
21 national Trade Commission makes an affirmative
22 determination under section 421(b) of the Trade Act
23 of 1974 (19 U.S.C. 2451(b)), or a determination
24 which the President or the United States Trade 25 Representative may consider as affirmative under

1 section 421(e) of such Act (19 U.S.C. 2451(e)), with 2 respect to articles of the People’s Republic of China 3 that the Secretary of Defense has determined are 4 like or directly competitive with articles produced by 5 a domestic industry that are critical to the defense 6 industrial base of the United States, the Secretary
7 of Defense may not procure, directly or indirectly, 8 such articles of the People’s Republic of China.

9 (2) WAIVER.—The President may waive the ap-10 plication of the prohibition contained in paragraph 11 (1) on a case-by-case basis if the President deter-
12 mines and certifies to Congress that it is in the na-
13 tional security interests of the United States to do 14 so.

15 SEC. 106. APPLICATION TO GOODS FROM CANADA AND 16 MEXICO.

17 Pursuant to article 1902 of the North American Free 18 Trade Agreement and section 408 of the North American 19 Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act of 1993 (19 20 U.S.C. 3438), the amendments made by sections 102, 21 103, and 206 of this Act shall apply to goods from Canada
22 and Mexico.

1 TITLE II—INTERNATIONAL MON-
2 ETARY AND FINANCIAL POL-
3 ICY

4 SEC. 201. FINDINGS.

5 Congress makes the following findings:

6 (1) Since the Exchange Rates and International 7 Economic Policy Coordination Act of 1988 (22 8 U.S.C. 5302(3)) was enacted the global economy has 9 changed dramatically, with increased capital account 10 openness, a sharp increase in the flow of funds 11 internationally, and an ever growing number of 12 emerging market economies becoming systemically 13 important to the global flow of goods, services, and 14 capital. In addition, practices such as the mainte-15 nance of multiple currency regimes have become 16 rare.

17 (2) Exchange rates among major trading na-
18 tions are occasionally manipulated or fundamentally 19 misaligned due to direct or indirect governmental 20 intervention in the exchange market.

21 (3) A major focus of national economic policy 22 should be a market-driven exchange rate for the 23 United States dollar at a level consistent with a sus-
24 tainable balance in the United States current ac-25 count.

1           (4) While some degree of surpluses and deficits 2           in payments balances may be expected, particularly 3           in response to increasing economic globalization, 4           large and growing imbalances raise concerns of pos-5           sible disruption to financial markets. In part, such 6           imbalances often reflect exchange rate policies that 7           foster fundamental misalignment of currencies.

8           (5) Currencies in fundamental misalignment
9           can seriously impair the ability of international mar-10          kets to adjust appropriately to global capital and 11          trade flows, distorting trade flows and causing eco-12          nomic harm to the United States.

13          (6) The effects of a fundamentally misaligned 14          currency may be so harmful that it is essential to 15          correct the fundamental misalignment without re-16          gard to the purpose of any policy that contributed 17          to the misalignment.

18          (7) In the interests of facilitating the exchange 19          of goods, services, and capital among countries, sus-
20          taining sound economic growth, and fostering finan-
21          cial and economic stability, Article IV of the Inter-22          national Monetary Fund's Articles of Agreement ob-
23          ligates each member of the International Monetary
24          Fund to avoid manipulating exchange rates in order
25          to prevent effective balance of payments adjustments

1 or to gain an unfair competitive advantage over 2 other members.

3 (8) The failure of a government to acknowledge 4 a fundamental misalignment of its currency or to 5 take timely and effective steps to correct such a fun-6 damental misalignment, either through inaction or 7 mere token action, is a form of exchange rate ma-
8 nipulation and is inconsistent with that govern-
9 ment's obligations under Article IV of the Inter-10 national Monetary Fund's Articles of Agreement.

11 SEC. 202. AMENDMENTS TO DEFINITIONS.

12 Section 3006 of the Exchange Rates and Inter-
13 national Economic Policy Coordination Act of 1988 (22
14 U.S.C. 5306) is amended by adding at the end the fol-15 lowing:

16 “(3) FUNDAMENTAL MISALIGNMENT.—The 17 term ‘fundamental misalignment’ means a material 18 sustained disparity between the observed levels of an 19 effective exchange rate for a currency and the cor-20 responding levels of an effective exchange rate for 21 that currency that would be consistent with funda-
22 mental macroeconomic conditions based on a gen-23 erally accepted economic rationale.

24 “(4) EFFECTIVE EXCHANGE RATE.—The term
25 ‘effective exchange rate’ means a weighted average

1 of bilateral exchange rates, expressed in either nomi-
2 nal or real terms.

3 “(5) GENERALLY ACCEPTED ECONOMIC RA-
4 TIONALE.—The term ‘generally accepted economic 5 rationale’ means an explanation drawn on widely 6 recognized macroeconomic theory for which there is 7 a significant degree of empirical support.”.

8 SEC. 203. BILATERAL NEGOTIATIONS.

9 Section 3004(b) of the Exchange Rates and Inter-
10 national Economic Policy Coordination Act of 1988 (22
11 U.S.C. 5304(b)) is amended to read as follows:

12 “(b) BILATERAL NEGOTIATIONS.—

13 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the 14 Treasury shall analyze on an annual basis the ex-
15 change rate policies of foreign countries, in consulta-
16 tion with the International Monetary Fund, and con-
17 sider whether countries—

18 “(A) manipulate the rate of exchange be-19 tween their currency and the United States dol-
20 lar for purposes of preventing effective balance 21 of payments adjustments or gaining unfair com-22 petitive advantage in international trade; or

23 “(B) have a currency that is in funda-24 mental misalignment.

1           “(2) AFFIRMATIVE DETERMINATION.—If the 2 Secretary considers that such manipulation or fun-3 damental misalignment is occurring with respect to 4 countries that—

5                   “(A) have material global current account 6 surpluses; or

7                   “(B) have significant bilateral trade sur-
8 pluses with the United States,

9 the Secretary of the Treasury shall take action to 10 initiate negotiations with such foreign countries on 11 an expedited basis, in the International Monetary 12 Fund or bilaterally, for the purpose of ensuring that 13 such countries regularly and promptly adjust the 14 rate of exchange between their currencies and the 15 United States dollar to permit effective balance of 16 payments adjustments and to eliminate the unfair 17 advantage.

18           “(3) EXCEPTION.—The Secretary shall not be 19 required to initiate negotiations if the Secretary de-20 termines that such negotiations would have a serious 21 detrimental impact on vital national economic and 22 security interests. The Secretary shall inform the 23 chairman and the ranking minority member of the 24 Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs 25 of the Senate and of the Committee on Financial

1 Services of the House of Representatives of the Sec-
2 retary's determination.”.

3 SEC. 204. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.

4 Section 3005 of the Exchange Rates and Inter-
5 national Economic Policy Coordination Act of 1988 (22
6 U.S.C. 5305) is amended to read as follows:

7 “SEC. 3005. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.

8 “(a) REPORTS REQUIRED.—

9 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary, after con-
10 sulting with the Chairman of the Board, shall sub-11 mit to Congress, on or before October 15 of each 12 year, a written report on international economic pol-13 icy and currency exchange rates.

14 “(2) INTERIM REPORT.—The Secretary, after 15 consulting with the Chairman of the Board, shall 16 submit to Congress, on or before April 15 of each 17 year, a written report on interim developments with 18 respect to international economic policy and cur-19 rency exchange rates.

20 “(b) CONTENTS OF REPORTS.—Each report sub-21 mitted under subsection (a) shall contain—

22 “(1) an analysis of currency market develop-23 ments and the relationship between the United 24 States dollar and the currencies of major economies
25 and United States trading partners;

1           “(2) a review of the economic and financial 2 policies of major economies and United States trad-3 ing partners and an evaluation of the impact that 4 such policies have on currency exchange rates;

5           “(3) a description of any currency intervention 6 by the United States or other major economies or 7 United States trading partners, or other actions un-8 dertaken to adjust the actual exchange rate of the 9 dollar;

10           “(4) an evaluation of the factors that underlie 11 conditions in the currency markets, including—

12                   “(A) monetary and financial conditions;

13                   “(B) foreign exchange reserve accumula-14 tion;

15                   “(C) macroeconomic trends;

16                   “(D) trends in current and financial ac-
17 count balances;

18                   “(E) the size and composition of, and 19 changes in, international capital flows;

20                   “(F) the impact of the external sector on 21 economic changes;

22                   “(G) the size and growth of external in-23 debtedness;

24                   “(H) trends in the net level of inter-25 national investment; and

1           “(I) capital controls, trade, and exchange
2           restrictions;

3           “(5) a list of currencies of the major economies
4           or economic areas that are manipulated or in funda-
5           mental misalignment and a description of any eco-6           nomic models or methodologies used to establish the 7           list;

8           “(6) a description of any reason or cir-
9           cumstance that accounts for why each currency iden-
10          tified under paragraph (5) is manipulated or in fun-11          damental misalignment based on a generally accept-12          ed economic rationale;

13          “(7) a list of each currency identified under 14          paragraph (5) for which the manipulation or funda-
15          mental misalignment causes, or contributes to, a 16          material adverse impact on the economy of the 17          United States, including a description of any reason 18          or circumstance that explains why the manipulation 19          or fundamental misalignment is not accounted for 20          under paragraph (6);

21          “(8) the results of any prior consultations con-22          ducted or other steps taken; and 23          “(9)(A) a list of each occasion during the re-24          porting period when the issue of exchange-rate mis-

25          alignment was raised in a countervailing duty pro-

1 ceeding under subtitle A of title VII of the Tariff
2 Act of 1930 or in an investigation under section 421
3 of the Trade Act of 1974;

4 “(B) a summary in each such instance of 5 whether or not exchange-rate misalignment was 6 found and the reasoning and data underlying that 7 finding; and

8 “(C) a discussion regarding each affirmative 9 finding of exchange-rate misalignment to consider 10 the circumstances underlying that exchange-rate 11 misalignment and what action appropriately has 12 been or might be taken by the Secretary apart from 13 and in addition to import relief to correct the ex-
14 change-rate misalignment.

15 “(c) DEVELOPMENT OF REPORTS.—The Secretary
16 shall consult with the Chairman of the Board with respect 17 to the preparation of each report required under sub-18 section (a). Any comments provided by the Chairman of 19 the Board shall be submitted to the Secretary not later 20 than the date that is 15 days before the date each report 21 is due under subsection (a). The Secretary shall submit 22 the report after taking into account all comments re-23 ceived.”.

1 SEC. 205. INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTION GOV-
2 ERNANCE ARRANGEMENTS.

3 (a) INITIAL REVIEW.—Notwithstanding any other
4 provision of law, before the United States approves a pro-
5 posed change in the governance arrangement of any inter-6 national financial institution, as defined in section 7 1701(c)(2) of the International Financial Institutions Act
8 (22 U.S.C. 262r(c)(2)), the Secretary of the Treasury 9 shall determine whether any member of the international 10 financial institution that would benefit from the proposed 11 change, in the form of increased voting shares or represen-
12 tation, has a currency that is manipulated or in funda-
13 mental misalignment, and if so, whether the manipulation 14 or fundamental misalignment causes or contributes to a 15 material adverse impact on the economy of the United 16 States. The determination shall be reported to Congress.

17 (b) SUBSEQUENT ACTION.—The United States shall 18 oppose any proposed change in the governance arrange-19 ment of any international financial institution (as defined 20 in subsection (a)) if the Secretary renders an affirmative 21 determination pursuant to subsection (a).

22 (c) FURTHER ACTION.—The United States shall con-
23 tinue to oppose any proposed change in the governance
24 arrangement of an international financial institution, pur-
25 suant to subsection (b), until the Secretary determines 26 and reports to Congress that the currency of each member

1 of the international financial institution that would benefit
2 from the proposed change, in the form of increased voting 3 shares or representation, is neither manipulated nor in 4 fundamental misalignment.

5 SEC. 206. NONMARKET ECONOMY STATUS.

6 Paragraph (18)(B)(vi) of section 771 of the Tariff 7 Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1677(18)(B)(vi)) is amended by 8 inserting before the period at the end the following: “, in-9 cluding whether the currency of the foreign country has 10 been identified pursuant to section 3005(b)(7) of the Ex-
11 change Rates and International Economic Policy Coordi-
12 nation Act of 1988 (22 U.S.C. 5305(b)(7)) in any written 13 report required by such section 3005(b)(7) during the 24-14 month period immediately preceding the month during 15 which the administering authority seeks to revoke a deter-
16 mination that such foreign country is a nonmarket econ-17 omy country”.
