9           “(c) BAN ON RETROACTIVE RATE INCREASES.—

13          account, other than the expiration of an introductory rate 14          or an increase in a variable rate, such increased rate shall 15          apply only to extensions of credit made on and after the 16          date of such increase under the account, and any extension

18          increase shall continue to incur interest at the rate that 19          was in effect on the date prior to the date of the in-20          crease.”.

3 OTHER ADVERSE CONSEQUENCES.—

4 “(1) IN GENERAL.—If a late payment fee is to 5 be imposed with respect to a credit card account 6 under an open end consumer credit plan due to the 7 failure of the consumer to make payment on or be-
8 fore a required payment due date, the credit card
9 issuer shall state clearly and conspicuously on the 10 billing statement—

11 “(A) the date on which the payment must 12 be postmarked, if paid by mail, or the date on 13 which a consumer must initiate a payment
14 using an electronic fund transfer (as defined
15 under section 903 of the Electronic Fund
16 Transfers Act), in order to avoid the imposition 17 of a late fee with respect to the payment; and

18 “(B) the amount of the late payment fee
19 to be imposed if payment is late.

20 “(2) LIMITATION.—No card issuer may, with 21 respect to a credit card account under an open end
22 consumer credit plan, impose a late payment fee,
23 raise the annual percentage rate on the credit card
24 account for late payment, or impose other adverse 25 consequences for late payment if the cardholder’s

1 payment is postmarked, received, or initiated elec-
 2 tronically, on or before the required date stated in 3 accordance with paragraph (1)(A).

4 “(3) CAP ON FEES.—

5 “(A) IN GENERAL.—The amount of any 6 fee or charge that a credit card issuer may im-
 7 pose in connection with any default, omission,
 8 or violation of the cardholder agreement, includ-
 9 ing any late payment fee, over the limit fee, in-10 crease in the applicable annual percentage rate, 11 or any similar fee or charge, may not exceed an 12 amount that is reasonably related to the cost to 13 the card issuer of such default, omission, viola-
 14 tion, or similar event.

15 “(B) RULEMAKING.—The Board shall pro-
 16 mulgate regulations to carry out the limitation
 17 described in subparagraph (A).”.

1           “(1) IN GENERAL.—A credit card issuer may 2 not open any credit card account for any person

6 which the account is opened or the credit limit in-7 creased, that the consumer will be able to make the 8 scheduled payments under the terms of the trans-

10 expected income, current obligations, and employ-
11 ment status.

12           “(2) REGULATIONS.—The Board shall pre-
13 scribe, by regulation, the appropriate formula for de-
